HARVARD.

CONDITION OF THE CREW. Cambridge, Mass., May 14 (Special).-Harvard's

"Varsity" crew took a four-nile practice row on Thursday, but Captain Vail refused to divnigo the time ch was made. It is no secret, however, that the record was not one to be proud of. The crew has been rowing poorly of late. Men are shifted here and there, apparently in the hope of striking some happy combination which will make them row together better. Pennessy, '96, still strokes the crew, and there is little fault to find with him. Fearing, '93, however, who has been at Nd 7 all the year, has been put in the middle of the boat at No. 5, while Cummings, '93, bas gone to No. 7. Vall, '93, still rows No. 6, and Davis, '94. No. 4, but the three bow men have been completely changed. Newell, '94, for three years how oar, has been moved down to No. 3, where his weight ought to be. Johnson, '94, has been transferred to the substitutes, and Richardson, '95, again brought into the boat and placed at No. 2, while Burgess, captain of the '93 class crew, is now pulling the bow oar. 800, '94; Miller, '93; Purdon, '95; Davis, '94, and Blake, '94, the substitutes, row daily in the fouroared shell. Such is the condition of the Harvard erew eight weeks before the race. It is a question if it was ever in a worse condition.

A pleasant dinner was given to Professor Drummond, of Edinburgh, on Wednesday evening, by about twenty graduates and undergraduates of the uni-They were representative men, chosen from different college organizations. Professor nd was much pleased with the honor accorded him, and after dinner spoke briefly on the position which Harvard occupies in Europe.

The annual Bowdoin prize speaking contest was held on Thursday night. There were twelve competitors chosen from some forty or fifty candidates and five prizes were awarded, two firsts to T. L. Ross and J. H. Hickey, '93, and three seconds to H. C. Metcalf, '94; A. F. Cosby, '94, and F. C. McLaughlin, '93. The judges were the Rev. Washington Gladden, the Hon. Pranklin G. Fessenden, Professor C. L. Smith, Professor James Barr Ames, the Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, Professor Barrett Wendell, William C. Lane, Professor J. H. Beele, Professor Arthur R. Marsh and Frank Bolles. The annual Delta Upsilon theatricals were given in Boston on Friday afternoun. The play was entitled "Our Charley." It is a three-act comedy, written by S. M. Ballou, '93, and David D. Well, '93. The principal paris were taken by C. E. Cook, '93'; C. E. Koyes, '95, and W. F. Lee, '94. The annual scring concert of the musical clubs for the buefit of the "Varsity" crew will be given in Sander's Theatre on May 18. A. C. Nash, '94, has been elected an editor of "The Harvard Lamp.on." A. A. Stagg has sent word to Mr. Durant, manager of the Yale Law School baseball team, inviting the new Yale nine to take part in the intercollegiate baseball games at Chicago in July. All expenses of the team will be paid by the management the tournament. The invitation will be accepted. In about a month "Sheff" will assume her annual super-activity. The seniors must be examined, the juniors and the freshmen will try for the upper classes. But this year the accommodations will be greatly improved. On the top floor of the spacious Winchester Hall, covering the whole floor, are two great examination fooms. These will be used for the first time. "North Sheff" will undergo a radical change before the class of '96 comes within its walls. The mechanical and civil engineers' drawing rooms have been located in Winchester Hall, leaving one on the second. It is intended to use the old examination rooms for the freshman drawing rooms, and a new lecture room will be made on the third floor by consolidating two large rooms. This is necessary on account of the large freshman classes of late years. The action of the Legislature in transferring the $25,000 Government appropriation to the Storrs Agricultural School will keep about thirty young men of limited means from entering the class of '96. One of "sheff's" greatest needs is cheap dormitories. Here is a field for her successful engineers to perpetuate their names in the line of their profession The correspondence between the managements of Yale and Harvard baseball associations, with reference to a third game this year has just been made public and there is a disposition here to accept the proposi tion of Harvard permitting differences to be arbitrated. As the matter now stands there is but one fair way out for Vale and Harvard. Let the tie game be played on Thursday, June 29, in Springfield. game be played on Thursday, June 29, in Springfield. That will be the day before the boat race. The visitors of both institutions will be on hand for the race and the chance for them to go to Springfield and support their nines will be an even one.

The valedictorian at Yale this year will be William Reynolds Begg, of Hendersonville, N. C.

Winthrop Edward Dwight will secure the salutatory beyond a doubt. He is a son of President Dwight. While Mr. Begg's scholarship is versatile, Mr. Dwight generally confines his attention to the classics. LAFAYETTE.

Easton, Penn., May 14 (Special).-The Athletic Association has appointed Joseph W. Ogden, '72, of New-York, a member of the Advisory Committee, in place of J. M. P. Grier, '88, deceased; also Frank S. Ormsby, '94, football manager; J. A. Miller, '95, assistant manager; F. C. Kirkendall, '94, bascball manager, and Stephen Stone, '05, assistant.

A serious split has occurred in the juntor class in reference to the proposed election of twelve men to serve as editors of the annual "Melange." The fra-ternity men, who comprise nearly one-half of the class, ask that each fraternity shall have one representative in the board, thus leaving three or places to be filled by the non-fraternity men, while the latter claim for the selves an equal representa-tion with the former. Each party proposes to publish separately.

BATES.

Lewiston, Me., May 14 (Special).-It has been definitely announced during the week that President Chency will hand in his resignation at commencement This action is not entirely unexpected. Some five or six years ago he proposed to resign, but the trustees urged him to stay. He did so, but determined to resign either this year or next. He has been connected with the college for thirty years, or from its foundation. He was also for nine years preceding the foundation of the college at the head of the Maine State Seminary, which was the fore runner of Bates. As possible candidates to succeed him three names are mentioned-Professor G. C. Chase, of the faculty; Professor C. A. Cowell, of Ashburnham, Mass., and the Rev. M. Summerhill, of Lewiston, formerly of New-York.

Geneva, N. Y., May 14 (Special).-The college ha eceived information from Indiana of a scholarship fund of $5,000, to be given by one whose name is for the present withheld. The college authorities are also informed that the bequest of James Simons, of Geneva, N. Y., will amount to about $32,000 By the will of the Rev. John Francis Potter, of the class of '62, who died at Pompton, N. J., on April 1, bequest is made to the college of $500. President Potter has been requested by Kenyon College to preach the ordination sermon for the Theological School on June 25.
